

THE HAPPY PRINCE

BY OSCAR WILDE

THE HAPPY PRINCE

High above the city on a tall column stood the _____ of The Happy Prince. He was covered with thin leaves of fine _____; his eyes were two sapphires and a large red ruby was on his sword hilt.

One day a _____
came and decided to spend the night
between the feet of the _____.

The swallow discovered that the Prince was _____ at the sight of the poverty and misery of the poor _____ in his city.

So, the swallow was persuaded to stay long enough to _____ the Prince give his gold to the _____.

First, the swallow
took the ruby to a
_____ with a
sick _____.

Then the swallow
carried one _____
eye to a starving
writer in a cold
_____.

The other _____ eye was flown to a
little homeless _____.

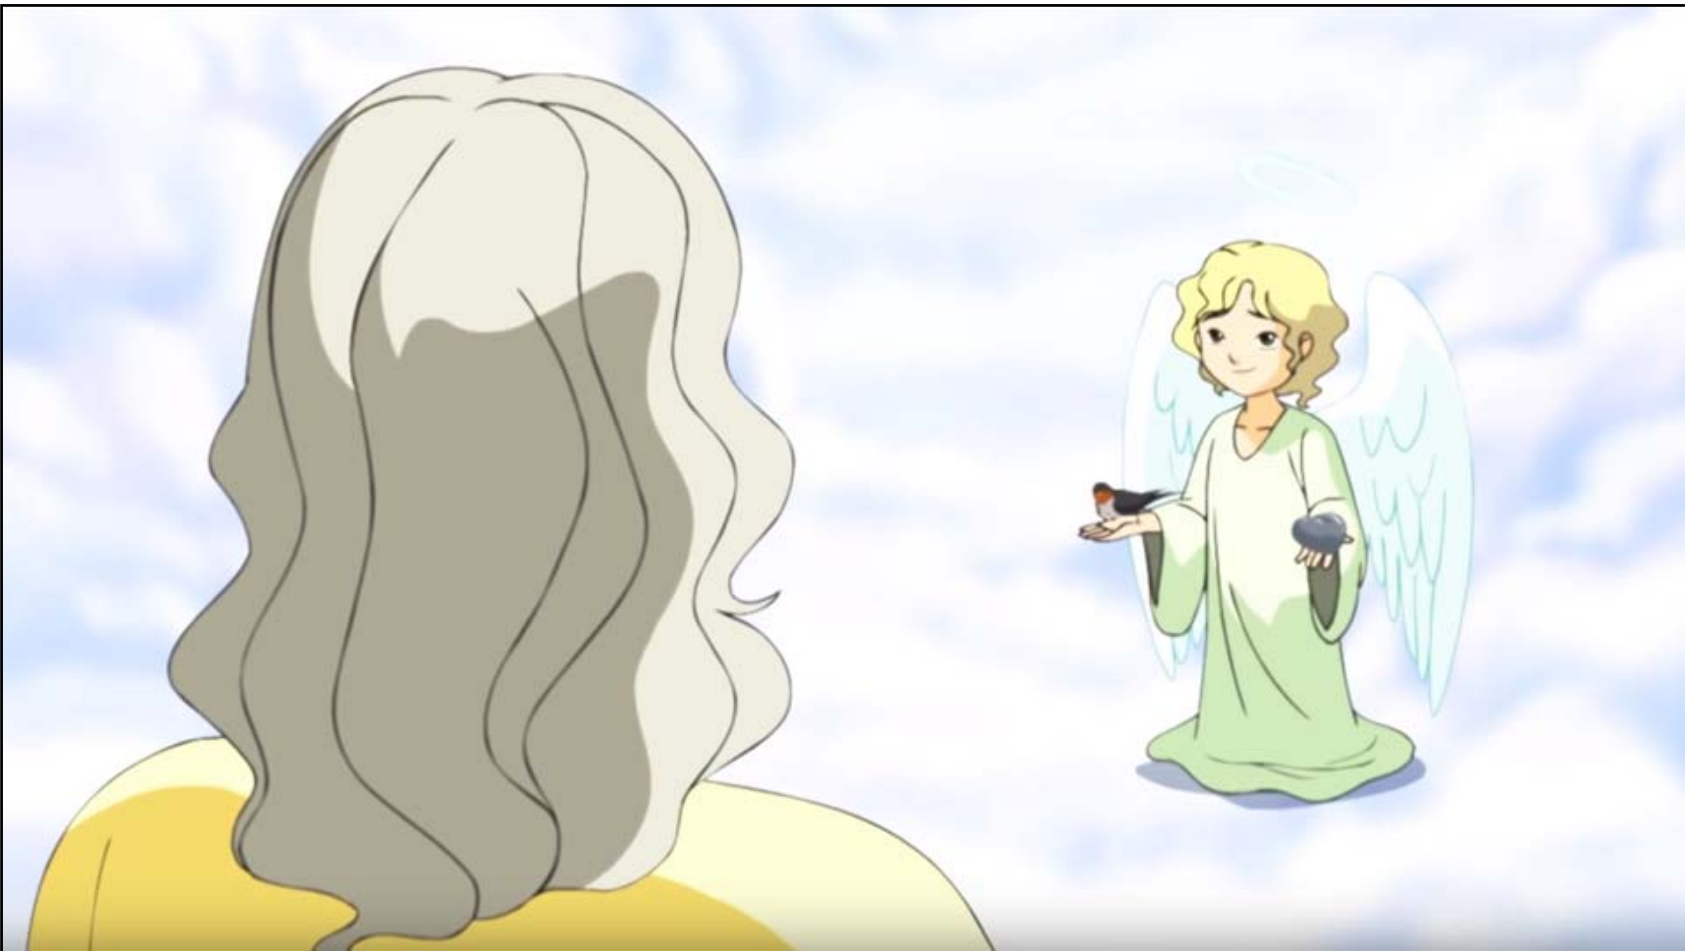

Then, one by one, the swallow carried all the leaves of _____ that covered the Prince's body to give aid to _____ people.

One day, in the cold
of the _____, the
swallow died and the prince's leaden
_____ cracked.

'Bring me the two _____ precious things in the city,' said God to one of his _____.

And the angel
brought him the leaden _____ of
the Prince and the dead _____.